

EXCUSES

by Maud DUSSAUGE

I didn't hand my homework in because I lost it.

I didn't hand my homework in because my cat couldn't do it.

I didn't hand my homework in because my little sister drew on it.

I didn't hand my homework in because I used all the pages to make a paper plane.

I didn't hand my homework in because my sister ate it.

I didn't hand my homework in because I ran out of tissue and I...er...

I didn't hand my homework in because it fell in the toilet.

I didn't hand my homework in because I tripped over a leaf, the book went hurtling through the air into the White House and hit the President on the head so he tore it up and threw it in his washing machine.

Honest !
